FEMARKS

SERMON

PREACHED AT

PETERSFIELD,

Jime the 17th, 1722,

By the Reverend

Mr. WILLIAM LOWTH,

Reiter of that Parish, and Prebendary of Winchester.

In a LETTER to Himself

IN WHICH

His Characters of an Apological Church are confidered, the Different Right to them is affected and maintained, their Ministers Call and Ordination defended, their Publications of them and their Assemblies are proved to be Unjust and Groundless.

By JOHN NORMAN. of Portfmonth.

LONDON:

Mintel for Jones Conses, ex the Bible ma Crown in the Protons near Cheapilds.

Mike Constant

Perce Six Pence

VSEVM BRITAN

R

befor woul

cerns a pu have

mgm I of a

(nuo

REMARKS

ON

Mr. LOWTH's

SERMON, &T.

REVEREND SIR,

I percoird the confession are

HE Sermon which you preach'd in your Church at Petersfield, June the 17th, 1722, and have fince communicated to the World from the Prefs, did not come to my Hands before the 13th of October; if it had, this Letter, would have waited on you fooner.

I am not, I confess, apprehensive, that it concerns me more than any of my Brethren, to take a a publick Notice of your Discouse, because you have not done me the Honour to consider mine.

1 B

which,

^{*} The Nature and Extent of Christ's Church considered; a Sermon preach'd at Peterssield, February 13, 1721-2, at the Opening of a Meeting-House there.

which, you are pleased to say, was the Occasion of it. Whether you thought it below one of your Character to regard any thing offered by a Dissenter, or found my Notion about the Nature and Extent of Christ's Church so supported by divine Authority, as well as the concurring Sentiments of some of the greatest Men of your own Communion, that but little Success could be expected should you attempt a Consutation of them, you can best determine. Let that be as it will, I hope, Sir, you will excuse the Liberty I have taken to animadvert on your Sermon; in which, if I am not missaken, there are several things advanced, not only without a sufficient Warrant, but manifestly injurious to Truth and Christian Charity.

You thought, I perceive, that you should have been wanting in your Duty, if you had not used your best Endeavours to preserve the People of your Parish in the Communion of your Church; and, I cannot see that any have Reason to blame you for so doing; because it ought to be supposed, that you are fully satisfied with your own way of worshipping God, and convinced of its being better than any other. But what Necessity was there, Sir, for misrepresenting the Dissenters, and giving such an Account of them and their Worship, as you are not able justifie?

If I am not very much out in my Opinion, many of your Auditory are already sufficiently prejudic'd against their sellow Protestants, who differ from them. I my self (when call'd to preach in your Town)

Town vour fession been l rude E the P thing profe But f think Fire v that kindle if you then, flead the Sp your courf ftance come little ble. are o bout

> Ti. 42 Etrine Praye

(with enou

on of your

Jen-

Ex-

tho-

ome

nion.

ould

beft

you

nad-

iftaonly

nju

been

your

t fee

ing;

fully

God, her.

lent-

t of

able

any

ic'd

rom

our

wn)

Town) was a Witness to fuch Rage among some of your Flock, as was a Scandal to the Christian Profession. I was in hopes, I must own, that they had. been better taught, and was willing to impute their rude Behaviour to an intemperate Zeal, arifing from the Prejudices of Education, rather than to any thing which they had heard from Perfons who profess to be Ministers of the Gospel of Peace: But fince I read your Sermon, I am inclined to think (forgive me, Sir, if I think amifs,) that the Fire which I saw among the People in the Street at that time, though of an unhallowed Nature, was kindled in the Sanctuary. This I am fure of, that if you had not a Hand in blowing up the Flame then, you have added Fewel to it now; and inflead of perswading Christians to keep the Unity of the Spirit in the Bond of Peace, which, you fay, is your hearty Prayer, as far as I can fee, your Difcourse is calculated to set them at a greater Distance from one another. But it is time for me to come to your Sermon. And because I would be as little troublesome to you and the World as possible, I shall forbear remarking on Passages which are of no great Moment, and not spend Time about Words and Phrases; though a Critick might (without a fevere Examination) find Occasions enough to employ his Talent.

The Text which you made Choice of, is in Acts ii. 42. And they continued stedfastly in the Apostles Do-Urine and Fellowship, and in breaking of Bread, and in Prayer. From which Words you propose to enquire:

First.

What was the State of the Oburch of Christ in the Apostles Days. or Willed a sert and the

Secondly, What Church, at this time, answers the Characters here given of a Primitive and Apostolical Church In which fecond Enquiry your defign (as the Title of your Sermon shews) is to make it apnear, that the Characters of an Apostolical Church are fulfilled in the Church of England, and that we are under Obligations to continue in its Communion. I shall carefully attend you throughout this Undertaking. and confider how you have made good your Propofals. But if I do not always follow you Step by Snep, it is because I am willing to bring the scattered Parts of your Argument together, that your reasoning on the Subject may appear in a full Light; which you might have faved me the trouble of doing, had you thought fit to let the World fee the Accuracy which you are undoubtedly Master of.

I. " The first Mark of a Primitive and Apostali-"cal Church (you fay) is its Members Continuance in "the Doctrine of the Apostles, P. 6." This you endeavour to explain in P. 7, 8; and P. 17. you shew, that this Character is to be found in the Church of England, Well, Sir, in this we are agreed; and I shall have no Controversy with you about it: But then, I hope, you will allow, that Protestant Difsenters, of several Denominations, continue in the Apostolical Doctrine, as well as the Members of your Communion. It is known to the World, that we acknowledge the Scriptures to be the only Rule of Faith, as well as you; to those we always appeal; AHIT and a Huden all the quain (P. 1 I will in you Allem chism . by Scr often which fwade the P lieve, Cont good as yo of yo mind Chur

> stame of Fa Westm

for th

tions

in his has co

and

Christ vers the oftolical gri (as ve are shall aking.

Proep by fcatyour ight;

doe the nce in en-

nd I
But Difthe

we of eal;

and

and according to these we profess to form out Judgments as well as Lives *. These are read in all the Congregations within the Reach of my Acquaintance, every Lord's Day; though you have (P. 18.) ventured to affirm, with what View I I will not fay, that there is more of the Scriptures read in your Church every Week, than is in many separate Assemblies throughout the whole Year to The Catechism which our Children are taught, is supported by Scripture Proofs, and the facred Writings are as often referred to in our Sermons as in yours. To which I add, that the Diffenters have, I am perfwaded, the Bible as generally in their Houses, as the People of the Church of England, and, I believe, are as well acquainted with its important Contents. All which must certainly amount to as good an Argument of Deference to the Word of God, as your making the reading of it so considerable a Part of your publick Worship; and especially if it be minded, that besides reading the Scriptures in your Churches, you read many Aportyphal Lesions too, for the fake of which (though they contain Relations that are false and fictitious) a considerable

^{*} Under the Name of the Holy Scripture, or the Word of God written, are now contained all the Books of the Old and New Testament; all which are given by Inspiration of God to be the Rule of Faith and Life. Confess. of Faith by the Assem. of Divines at Westminster.

[†] The Bishop of Derry thought fit, some time since, to charge the Dissenters in Ireland with casting the Rending the Word of God out of most of their publick Assemblies. But the Rev. Mr. 7. Boyse, in his Remarks on the Bishop's Discourse, and the Vindication of them, has convinced the World, that the Dissenters were abused.

Part of the facred Canon is excluded, and many of your People are induced to entertain the same Veneration for the Writings of fallible Men, as for the Books which were drawn up under the Conduct of an unerring Spirit.

As to what you mention concerning the particular regard which your Church pays to the judgment of the Primitive Church, about the Sense of the Scriptures, P. 13. I cannot fee that it is to your Purpose. Befides, if you can make any Advantage of it, we may do the same, there being as much Respect paid to Antiquity by the Dissenters, as it can reasonably challenge. We are not, indeed, convinced, that we are under any Obligations to believe as the Church believes; nor do we apprehend it to be our Duty to make the Judgment of uninspired Men a Standard for ours. We are for fearthing the Scriptures, and making the best Use that we can of the Capacities and Helps which God is pleafed to give us; and when our fearches are honest, we make no doubt of God's leading us into all necesfary Truth, and accepting our Sincerity, though we should fall into some Mistakes, as you and all Mankind do and will. What Regard you are for paying to the Judgment of the Primitive Church, you have not told us; but if it be more than is fairly reconcileable with your fubscribing, that nothing ought to be esteemed an Article of Faith, but what is contained in the Scripture, or may be proved thereby *,

this v

continuo do ou gratu with was o

the m

Church rightle that a please uninter Apostle are all which

Chu

other

when

exami

" and " con " whi

men on a I

ward the Ur

^{*} See the 6th Article of the Church of England.

this will be so far from being an Evidence of what you seem to offer it for, that it will rather prove the contrary.

Well Sir, thus far we are come; your Church continues stedsastly in the Apostles Doctrine, and so do our Churches. And methinks, I can't but congratulate my self and Friends, on our Agreement with you in this; because keeping that Faith which was once delivered to the Saints, you tell us. (p. 9.) is the most essential Note of a true Church.

Your Remark on this Head, relating to the Church of Rome, I heartily join in; for, as you rightly observe, they are very descient in making out that they have kept the Faith. And, if you had pleased, you might have said the same, about the uninterrupted Succession of their Church from the very Apostles; of which the Missionaries of that Church are always making loud Boasts. But that is a Point which you treat with more Tenderness than the other; and for a Reason, which will be no Secret, when the next Head of your Discourse hath been examined. To proceed then,

2. "The second Character of an Apostolical "Church (say you) is their living in a strict Union and Fellowship with the Apostles, that is, they continued Members of that Body or Society, which Christ had placed under their Government." P. 9. And then (p. 10.) you enter upon a Discourse, about Christians continuing in outward Asts of Communion, and tell us, how much the Unity of the Church depends upon their doing

nany

fame

n, as

the

ticu-

ent of

tures,

Be-

may

id to

nably

that is the e our

Ien a

the

e can

eased

, we

ecef-

ough

d all

e for urch.

fair-

thing

at is

eby*,

fo. What you have advanced on that Head, I shall have a due Regard to, before I take my Leave of you. But I chuse to consider that Part of your Sermon in a more proper Place; because a bare continuing in outward Communion, cannot be thought to be your principal Design. For that would be consounding your Method, and making your second Mark of an Apostolical Church, coincident with your third and fourth, and so reducing your four Characters to two.

That which you aim at (if I take you right) is, to shew it to be necessary (if a Church would prove herself to be Apostolical) that her Members should continue in external Communion with the Apostles. And because we who live at so many Ages distance from them, can't be said to have Fellowship with them in the same Manner as those Christians had who lived in their Days; therefore you tell us, (p. 13.) that whoever lives in the Fellowship and Communion of those who succeed the Apostles, and first Teachers of the Church, continues in the Fellowship of the Apostles themselves; and (p. 18.) you attempt to prove, that the Members of your Church do so. Your Argument then, if reduced to a Syllogism, would I suppose stand thus, viz.

Whoever is in the Fellowship and Communion of those, who succeed the Apostles and first Teachers of the Church, continues in the Fellowship of the Apostles themselves:

The Church of England is in Fellowship and

E

I ful in yo Expl may, But good Conc very of your is for ing fur offer

Succe

we h

Judge Biass sition

Ales (

Apostil and, ing w

ties,

Communion of those, who succeeded the Apoftles and first Teachers of the Church, viz. the Bishops, in the second of the second

BEG but stourd all or whiblos

Ergo, Oc.

lead, I

y Leave

of your

a bare

hought ould be

r Second

th your

Chara-

ght) is,

prove

should

Apostles.

listance

hthem

d who

p. 13.)

union of

of the s them-

hat the

ument

uppose

I hope, Sir, I have hit your Meaning; if not, I submit to Correction. The major Proposition is in your own Words, and though it requires some Explication, and would admit of a Debate, you may, if you Please, for once, take it for granted. But the Minor wants Proof, and must be made good, before you can pretend any Right to the Conclusion. And here it will be expected (and very justly) that you should demonstrate, in the first Place, that the Apostles, as Apostles, had proper Successors; and then, that Diocesan Bishops, such as we have in the Church of England, are their Succesfors. Thefe, Sir, are Things in which that Part of your Discourse, which I am now considering, is so nearly concern'd, that if you fail of producing fufficient Evidence for them, all that you have offer'd, about your having Fellowship with the Apofiles (as you have explain'd it) will pass, in the Judgment of fuch, as read your Sermon without a Biass on their Minds in your Favour, as an Imporsition on your Auditory and the World.

That the Apostles have any proper Successors, as Apostles, is what you have not attempted to prove. and, I believe, never will; it being an Undertaking which is attended with insuperable Difficulties. You know, Sir, that your great and learned

f those, of the Apostles.

p and

Com

Dr. Barrow hath made it appear, by unanswerable Arguments, that "The Apostolical Office, as such, " was personal and temporary; and therefore, ac-" cording to it's Nature and Design, not successive " or communicable to others, in perpetual Descendence from them. * Successors without Doubt they have, (viz. Parochial Bishops or Presbyters) in the ordinary Branches of their Power; fuch as Teaching, administring the Sacraments, Church-Cenfures, Ordaining, &c. But not in those Branches of Power, which were peculiar to them as Apostles, and founded upon the Promise of extraordinary Assistance; for these (as a judicious Writer of ours very well observes t) are no more derivable to any Successors, than that extraordinary Assistance is. The Apostles then having no Successors, as Apostles, Diocefan Bishops will never pretend to that Character: Nor will you, I am fure, attempt to prove it belongs to them.

"That the most ancient Churches, those who were planted by the Apostles themselves, held their Bishops to be the immediate Successors of the Apostles, " (as you say, p. 19. 'tis certain they did) is what I am free enough to allow you. That is, that they held their Bishops, or the Pastors of particular Congregations to be the Apostles Successors, in the ordinary Powers derivable from the

Apo-

postle

hey w

affirr

ill tak

ot exp

Mertic

ill pa

latter

h the

'Tis

ciple

Offic

ny pa

were

Roma

e Wo

oring

As t hose '

rt th

hurch

prov

ocess,

nstitu

man Peop

iatec

you y Offi

^{*} Treatise of the Pope's Suprem. Fol. p. 77. + Mr. Boyse's clear Account of the ancient Episcopacy, &c.

erable

s fuch,

e, ac-

ccessive

Descen-

Doubt

rs) in

ich as

h-Cen-

hes of

, and

Affi-

ours

to any

The

s, Di-

acter:

it be-

e who held

ors of

ertain

you.

Pastors

poftles

m the

Boyfe's

Apos

postles, of which I before took notice: But you mean, that they held their Bishops to be y Office Superior to Presbyters, and maintained that ney were the Apostles Successors in the Powers and baracters which belong'd to them as Apostles, this affirmed without Proof. And if your Parishioners ill take every thing you fay upon Truft, you must ot expect that others will do fo; or that politive ffertions, which have nothing to support them, ill pass for substantial Argument. It is an easy latter to say (as you do, in your marginal Note the afore-mentioned Passage in your Discourse) 'Tis certain that several of those, who were Difciples of the Apostles, did exercise the Episcopal Office, and had the Care and Overfight of many particular Churches and Congregations; fuch were Timothy, Titus, Ignatius, Polycarp, Clemens Romanus, &c." But it is not fo eafy to convince e World, that it is as certain as you represent it: or indeed, that is fo much as probable.

As to Timothy and Titus, they were Evangelists, nose Work it was to affist the Apostles to contret the Insidel World, and to plant and settle nurches among them; but I could never yet see proved, that they had each of them, a fixed ocess, as our Bishops have, and that they were nstituted by the Apostles, as the stated Governors many Churches, with a Power to rule, not only e People, but the Pastors of these Churches; or at the Powers of Diocesan Bishops were appropriated to them, All this hitherto wants Confirmation.

mation. And then, as to Ignatius, Polycarp, &c. that they, or either of them, had the Care and Overfight of many particular Congregations, remains yet to be demonstrated. That Ignatius's Judgment was for your Side of the Question, you think is sufficiently known; but if you would be at the Pains to examine the fair and just Account, which our learned Mr. Boyse hath given, * of all the Passages which he could neet with, in that Father's Epistles, relating to the Point in Controversy, and impartially weigh them, I believe you would find, that Ignatius is as favourable to our Cause as yours.

But what ever your Thoughts may be, we are well fatisfied, that though he plainly enough intimates fome Difference between the Bishop and his Presbyters; yet there is no Foundation to conclude, from any thing delivered by him, that there was any Distinction of Office between them. And I am persuaded you cannot shew, that there was such a Distinction for two Hundred Years, at least after the Christian Church was planted.

I know that we have been often challenged to produce any Instance, of a Church settled without Bishops, for above fifteen Hundred Years after Christ; (p. 19.) but that we have not been able to produce any Instance of that Kind, is a very strange Assertion.

much exactly orthogold aile

G

t. C

A w

he (

ll th

Paul.

Twen

nuch

tance

he A

And

ath

hore,

vho v

earne

No

Chu

but

ties

man

whil

fome

any .

grea

that

they

Ti

^{*} Clear Account of the ancient Episcopacy.

Good Sir, who was Bishop of Corinth when the Church's Epistle to that Church was written? A worthy Minister of ours hath proved, * that he Church of Corinth was governed by Presbyters, all the Lives of the two great Apostles, Peter and Paul, and made it probable, that it continued so Twenty or Thirty Years after their Deaths, if not nuch longer.

Till you can disprove it, then, here is an Intance of a Church settled without Bishops even in he Apostles Time, and for many Years afterward. And to let you fee that more than one Instance ath been given, I beg leave to mention feveral hore, which I find taken notice of by an Author who was no Adversary to Episcopacy; I mean the earned Bishop Stillingsleet, who writes thus; t Now as to Church-Government, we may find some Churches without Bishops for a long Time, some but with one Bishop in a whole Nation, many Cities without any, where Bishops were common; many Churches discontinued Bishops for a great while, where they had been: ---- First then, some whole Nations seem to have been without any Bishops at all: ---- So if we may believe the great Antiquaries of the Church of Scotland, that Church was governed by their Culdei, as they called their Presbyters, without any Bishop olycarp.

e Care

gations,

natius's

on, you libe at

ccount,

of all

hat Fa-

roverfy,

would

Cause as we are

gh inti-

and his

onclude,

ere was

d I am

re was at leaf

d to pro-Bishops,

19.) but

ce of that

^{88-93. +} Irenicum, 2d Edit. p. 6, 7.

" over them, for a long Time. Johannes Major " speaks of their Instruction in the Faith, per sa-" cerdotes & monachos fine episcopis Scoti in fide eru-" diti. But, least that should be interpreted only of their Conversion, Johannes Fordonis is clear and " full, as to their Government, from the Time of " their Conversion, A. D. 263. to the Coming of " Palladius, A.D. 430. that they were only governed " by Presbyters and Monks; ante Palladij adventum " babebant Scoti, fidei doctores ac Sacramentorum mini-" stratores presbyteros solummodo vel monachos ritum se-" quentes ecclesia primitiva: ---- And if we believe " Philostorgius, the Gothick Churches were plant-" ed and governed by Presbyters, for above Seven " ty Years; for fo long it was from their first Con-" version to the Time of Ulphilas, whom he makes " their first Bishop, Oc.

You see, Sir, that Instances have been given of Churches settled without Bishops, long before the Time you speak of. And some of them gave such Satisfaction to the learned Person before cited, that he thought them sufficient Evidence for the Point he was maintaining. How these Passages could escape you, methinks is somewhat surprizing, Stillingsseet's Irenicum being so celebrated a Book, and so generally read. But I had rather impute this to a Failure of your Memory, than enter tain a Suspicion about the Sincerity of your Management.

Should you, after all, insist upon it, that an uninterrupted Succession of Persons, vested in those Powers Power ceffar; noming the W ly man nifters of the without dition, fenters promify yours, when fon of possible Your rive

Your rive poftle other the Chis Cour be been why he roved ou in heir

^{*} Pref

Major

ber fa-

de eru-

only of

ar and

ime of

ning of

verned

ventum

mini-

um seelieve

plant-

Seven

t Con-

makes ven of

re the e fuch

cited.

or the

affages

rizing

Book

mpute

enter

r Ma-

those

owers

Powers, which is derivable from the Apostles, is necessary to that Apostolical Fellowship, which will denominate a Church Apostolical, pray oblige me and the World with a List of Names, which will clearly make out such an uninterrupted Succession of Ministers in your Church, and demonstrate, that none of them came in after a surreptitious Manner, without Episcopal Ordination. And, on that Condition, I will undertake to do the same on the Disfenters Part. And, be as quick as you will, I dare promise that my List shall be ready as soon as yours. But Bishop Hoadly is certainly in the right when he says, that this regular uninterrupted Succession of Persons qualified, and regularly ordained, is impossible to be proved *.

Your Bishops however "can (you say, P. 19.) derive their Authority from the Times of the Apostles, with as uninterrupted a Succession as any other Church can pretend to do, not excepting the Church of Rome it self". But pray, why all his Caution, and what Occasion was there for our being so much upon the Reserve? Either you to believe the uninterrupted Succession which you peak of, or you do not. If you do believe it, why had you not afferted it in express terms, and roved it too? If you do not believe it, why would ou infinuate it to the People, and impose upon neir Credulity? These are Questions which, I think, you are concerned to answer to your felf and the World. In the mean time, I am perswaded of your being fo far in the right, that you can pretend to as uninterrupted a Succession as any other Church, that is, in short, to none at all. Your faying, that you will not except the Church of Rome it felf, gives no Strength to your Claim; the Succession in that Church (even in the times nearest to the Apostles, without tracing it through the following Ages) being as muddy as the Tiber it felf*. This, however, is a Complement which that Church will thank you for, though it be plain enough, that it is to ferve your own Ends: For all the World must allow, that it is impossible for you to make out your Succession, but through theirs; and that if any Link in that falls, there must be an End to yours too.

Preservative, &c. P. 78.

And now, I hope, you will allow me to ask what Reason you have to say as you do, P. 20. "We "may justly object to our Dissenting Teachers their "want of a lawful Call to the Ministry, setting "themselves up for Teachers in Opposition to the "Authority of the Bishops of the Church, to whose "Office it belongs to send Ministers into the Lord's "Vineyard"? I own, Sir, that you are at Liberty to object what you think sit. But whether your Objections are just or not, is another Consideration, about which your Readers should suspend

olyvid 3

the

clin

can

It i

hav

ple

(ex

fen

of

Scr

fole

Ha

to i

fer

bate a fi

tus

Ordi

ters

auth

fhal

we l

layin

AT

mad

the long

with

^{} Stillingfleet's Irenicam, P. 322. Sell se sales and their Judgment, till they see some Evidence to inour felf cline them to be of your Mind. And, as far as I perfwacan find, they are like to wait long enough for this. vou can It is not fufficient to tell the World, that the Bilbops y other have fuch an Authority in the Church as you are Your pleading for, and that it belongs to their Office Rome (exclusive of Presbyters) to ordain Ministers, and to ae Sucfend them into the Vineyard; but the jus Divinum nearest of the Episcopal Authority must be cleared up, and he fol-Scripture Arguments produced to prove, that the it self. fole Power of Ordination is lodg'd in the Bishops Church Hands; and till this is done, all that you fay, is but h, that begging the Question. The Passages in the Epistles World to Timothy and Titus, which you are pleased to remake fer us to, can be of no Service to you in this Ded that bate, before you make it appear that Timothy had End to a fixed Relation to the Church of Ephesus, and Titus to that of Crete, and that these were their ork what " We dinary Charge. And moreover, that the Power of Ordination was fo vested in them, that the Presbys their ters which they ordained in these Places were not fetting authorized to ordain other Presbyters; which we to the shall not easily be prevailed with to believe, because whofe we know that Timothy himself, was ordained by the Lord's laying on of the Hands of the Presbytery, 1 Tim. iv. 14. Liber-A Text which (after all the Attempts have been r your made to wrest it from us) fully satisfies us, that idera-

the Power of ordaining did then, and doth now belong to Presbyters, and that Ordination by them is with Abilities to serve him in the Ministry, and

So that if God is pleased to furnish us inclines

their

ifpend

inclines us, by his Grace, to devote our felves to that holy Calling: If we are folemnly fet apart to it by Fasting, Prayer, and the Imposition of Hands, and the People desire us to preach to them, and chuse us for their Instructors, and spiritual Guides; you must allow us to think, that our Call is as clear and as lawful as yours, though we do not apply to the Diocesan Bishops for their Approbation and Orders. And in this we are the more confirmed, because there is Reason to hope, that God is pleased to own our Ministry, by making it useful to many Souls.

Though we cannot therefore take it very kindly, that you represent us to the World (as the Nonjurors do you, and the Papists do all the Reformed) to be Thieves and Robbers, P. 20. Yet if we may be so happy as to hear Christ, the chief Shepherd, say to us in the great Day of Account, Well done, good and faithful Servants, I hope we shall not be disturbed at any of your Censures. In the mean time it may not be improper for our Brethren, who are so fond of transmitting us to Posterity, under the worst of Characters, to enquire into their own Call. I need not tell you, that when any enter upon the Office of Deacons, they are asked, "Do" you trust, that you are inwardly moved by the "Holy Ghost, to take upon you this Office, to serve

pofe

En

oft S

retch

. A

ear (

xcelle

Wh

is a

by t

that can

Ghos

ved

dare

o Inte

ion o ut I

hat w

ou m

hose o

efend

Notion

uft.

fults

that

Per

* Pafi

[&]quot;God for the promoting his Glory, and the edi"fying his People"? To which the Answer is, I [&]quot;trust so. Now, though I am now fully perswaded, that there are many of the Clergy of the Church

lves to

part to Hands,

m, and

duides;

is clear

ply to

nd Ord, be-

s plea-

ful to

kind-

as the

Reform-

e may

pherd,

A done,

bé di-

n time

ho are

er the

rown

er up-

" Do

y the ferve

e edir is, I erfwa-

hurch

of

England, who made that Answer with the utoft Sincerity: Yet Charity must be very much retch'd, if we suppose that all in holy Orders did . And do you think that fuch as did not, have a ear Call to the Service of the Altar? I am fure xcellent Bishop Burnet was not of that Mind; When a Clergyman (faith that great Prelate *) is asked, Do you trust that you are inwardly moved by the Holy Ghost, &c? and answers, I trust so, that yet knows nothing of any fuch Motion, and can give no Account of it, he lies to the Holy Ghost; ---- and how can one expect to be received by God, or be fent or fealed by him, that dares do a thing of fo crying a Nature"? I had o Intention, when I entered upon the Consideraon of your Discourse, to take Notice of this; ut I can't fee any Hurt in minding you of it, hat when you are disputing and denying our Call, ou may consider, that there are not a few among hose of your Church, that would be at a Loss to efend their own. The learned Monsieur Claude's Notion of a Call to the Ministry seems to me very uft. " It is (fays he t) but a Relation which refults from the Agreement of three Wills, to wit, that of God's, that of the Church, and that of the Person called". Now, Sir, whenever you are difposed to examine your Call and ours by the Con-

^{*} Pastoral Care, P. 111. + Historical Defence of the Reformation, P. 59.

fent of the three Wills, I will endeavour to attend you in fuch an Examination, and, I hope, the If, fue may be as much in our Favour as in yours.

Thus I have confidered your fecond Mark of an Apostolical Church; and notwithstanding all that you have advanced, I can't fee but it is fulfilled (as you express it) in our Churches, as well as in the Church of England. I proceed now to confider,

3. The third Character the Text gives of an Apostolical Church, which is (as you observe, P. 14) "that they joined together in breaking of Bread "that is, in partaking of the Lord's Supper" This, you fay, P. 15. was in the first Ages of Christianity, look'd upon as a necessary Part of the Christian Worship, which they performed daily; and for fome Ages after the Times of the Apostles never omitted it upon the Days of their publick and fotemm Affemblies. And, P. 20. you tell us, " It is " the Defire of our Church, that the Celebration " of the Lord's Supper may be reduced to its primi-"tive Frequency". But how does it appear, that is Is the Defire of your Church that the Sacrament should be so often administer'd? One would think that there should be no better way of knowing the Defire of the Church, than by her Orders. Now you are very fenfible, that the Canon relating to the Holy Eucharist only fays, that "in every Parish "Church and Chappel, where Sacraments are to " be administer'd within this Realm, the Holy Com" munion shall be administer'd at least thrice in the * Ca

Year

Year

fole

he pi

ou fh

he D ishes

ects;

regat

y Mo

Diff

prin

fenf

ftiar

Saci

nore (

mong

too m

gard 1

hould

on, f

Are th

who th

need o

God?

more

Liturgy

nister

nindii

Year *. And does this shew a Define of having folemnized every Lord's Day, as was customary in he primitive Church? Or will any think, that ou fnew a greater Regard to that Ordinance than he Differers do, when in the most of your Paishes you have it no oftener than the Canon diects; whereas in the greatest Part of our Conregations it is more frequent, and in many evey Month? Your faying, P. 16. " Many of our Diffenters look upon hearing Sermons as the principal Part of religious Worship, and are not fenfible of the Obligations lying upon all Chriflians, to remember the Death of Christ in the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper", proves no more (fupposing it true) than that we have fome mong us, who fet one Ordinance of the Gospel too much above another; and don't shew that Reard to all our Saviour's Institutions that they hould do. And may I not, with as much Reaon, fay the same concerning many among you? Are there not more than a few in your Churches, who think that faying their Prayers, is all that they need concern themselves about, in the Worship of God? And is it not common for Perfons, to put on more than ordinary shew of Devotion, while the Liturgy is reading, and yet behave, while the Mihister is in the Pulpit, as if a Sermon was not worth minding? I my felf have feen scandalous Instances attend

the If.

ours.

of an

11 that

illed (as

in the

of an

P. 14)

Bread,

pper "

ges of

of the

y; and

postles

and fo-

" It is oration

s primi-

that it

rament

think

ng the

ow you

to the Parish-

are to

y Com-

Year

er,

^{*} Canon 21.

of this more than once, and heard it oftener complained of, by some serious Persons of your own Communion as Matter of Grief and Shame. And as to the Lord's Supper, you have as much Cause as we, to lament its being too much neglected. In most of your Parishes the Number of Communicants is very small; and, without doubt, it would be much smaller, if receiving the Sacrament was not made a Qualification for Places of Honour and Profit, and some had not a greater Regard to their temporal Interest, than to Conscience and Duty. Your way of talking therefore, will conclude as much against your selves, as against us. But, after all, nothing can be more unjust, than to condemn any Communion, for the Faults of some of its Members. We are now to confider,

4. The fourth Character by which you fay, P. 16. the Apostolical Church is described, viz. Their joining together in publick Prayer. And in this too we agree with the primitive Church as well as you; folemn Prayer being a constant Part of Worship in our Asfemblies, as well as in yours. I confess, if your Liturgy had been composed by the Apostles themfelves; or did it appear that they always used one; or could you shew us any Directions given, by them, to the Government of the Church in succeeding Ages, to draw up Forms of Prayers for the People to make use of at all Times, and to oblige Congregations invariably to keep to them, I would readily own, that you are more Apostolical than we: But none of these things being proved, while we join together in publick

ged Good if w Apol If w fay

I
you
if y
two

too :

the older

T

" C

Love oin If t

Chu

hal bret

enf n a

ae

er com-

ur own

Shame.

s much

h neg-

Number

doubt,

Sacra-

s of Ho-

er Re-

ence and

ill con-

inft us.

than to

of some

, P. 16.

r joining

e agree

folemn our Af-

if your

them-

sed one; by them,

g Ages,

o make

gations

y own,

none of

ether in publick

publick Prayer, and this Part of Worship is managed (as we are perswaded it is) as the Word of God directs; you must not think it a Presumption, if we maintain, that your last Character of an Apostolical Church, belongs to us, as much as to you: If we should say more, perhaps you would think us too assuming, but we are convinced that we should say no more than is true.

I should now proceed to several things which you have offered under the Head of Prayer; but, if you please, I will leave these for a Moment or two; because Ihave now a fair Opportunity to ask you what you mean by faying, as you do, P. 10. The Unity of the Church does not consist in a bare "Communion of Faith and Love, as our Diffenters pretend; but likewise in a joint Participation of the outward Ordinances appointed by Christ to be " observed in his Church". As our Dissenters preend! Pray, Sir, what is it that they pretend? Do you mean that they pretend, that the Unity of the Church does so consist in a Communion of Faith and Love, that Christians are under no Obligations to oin in the Ordinances which Christ has instituted? If this be your Meaning, we complain of it as a very great Injury to us, as well as to Truth. I hallenge you, Sir, to mention the Dissenter that pretends any fuch thing. All that know us are ensible, that we are as much for external Communin as you. Our Practice (as I have made appear under the two last Heads) is a Demonstration to we World of the Respect which we pay to our

Saviour's

Saviour's Inflitutions; and, I could point out to you the time (which fome of your Church very well remember) when Diffenters exposed themselves to Fines, Prisons, and a great many other Hardships, for the fake of having the Benefit of Christ's Ordinances. So that if your Defign was to reprefent us as having no Regard to external Communion, I must take the Liberty to fay, that you infinuate a thing that is evidently false. We do indeed pretend, that the Unity of the Church Catholick is a Unity of the Spirit, and so the Apostle calls it, Ephes. iv. 3. but we maintain, at the same time, that where there is this Unity, there will be a due Regard to all the Ordinances which Christ has instituted in the Church, and a Care to live in external Communion with it: though this external Communion must be allowed to be a Way by which we discover our Unity with the Church, rather than the Unity it felf. And, as far as I can perceive, your Opinion about this is the same with mine for, though you tell us, that the Unity of the Church is founded upon external Bonds --- as well as an internal Union with Christ, and the Holy Spirit (which you will hardly be able to maintain, feeing there are Cases to be mentioned, in which Persons may be in Unity with the Catholick Church, when they have hat to no Opportunities of having external Communion per use with any Part of it) yet, P. 11. you call outward Add and no of Communion, a Manifestation of Union, plainly di flinguishing between the Unity and Manifestation of it. There are some other things in the above-men tioned ione nuft ed I o th

Th ou 1 vith : ed w hat y But t he " com fter hich No . 22. of t ut do robab n, by at a F

For

Han

Study

eak o Veight any w

com

out to

h very

nselves

Hard-

Christ's

repre-

munion,

finuate

ed pre-

s a U-

Ephef.

e, that ue Re-

institu-

external

Commu-

nich we

er than

erceive

h mine

e Church

in inter-

nich you

ere are may be

ey have

munion

ard Ass

ioned Page, which I might take Notice of, but I nust remember, that we have not, as yet, ballaned Accounts about Prayers, and therefore I return o that Part of your Sermon.

That your Liturgy is so beautiful and exact as ou represent it, P. 21. is what all cannot agree ith you in. However, fince you are fo much pleaed with it, I shall not try your Temper by faying. hat you have been too liberal of your Encomiums. But then you must bear with me, while I examine he " Advantage which (you fay, P. 21.) a well composed Form has, for the edifying both Minister and People", above that Way of praying hich is used in Diffenting Congregations.

Now, with Respect to the Minister, you tell us. . 22. " It is easier for him, who is the Mouth of the Congregation, to join devoutly in a Form of Prayer which is already made to his Hands, than when his Mind is distracted with studying what to fay next ". As to this, Sir, withnt doubt you speak as you think; and it is very robable, that should some Ministers be called up-, by an Emergency of Providence, to pray withat a Form, they would be very much at a Lofs hat to fay next, because it is what they were neer used to. But, if others, after a long Practice, nd no fuch Distraction in their Thoughts as you inly discheak of, what you fay can, with fuch, have no tation of Weight. And, I am well affured, there are a great ve-men any who will tell you, that they find themselves composed, and free from Confusion of Thought tioned

D 2

in

in Prayer, without a Form, as they could be, had they one before them: Let a Man think before hand, what Sins are to be confessed, what Mercies are to be defired, and what Favours and Benefits he is to praise God for; let him, b Premeditation and earnest Prayer in Secret, for the Direction and Affiftance of the Holy Spirit, endeavour to prepare to address the Throne of Grace as the Mouth of an Assembly, and he need no doubt of being able to pray without Diffraction And then as the People, when you have faid all they themselves know what is most for their own Edification better than you; and if they have found their Hearts more affected, and their Devotion more warm and fervent without a Form than with it, it will be impossible for you, to perswade them to believe, what is against their own Experience. know you take a great deal of Pains, to represent it very difficult, for the Hearers to join in fuch Prayers, as the Diffenters offer up to God; but the Difficulty is certainly more in your own Imagina tion than in the Nature of the thing. You mistake, Sir, if you think there is need of so much Application of Mind to understand the Sense of the Words which we use in the Duty I am now speaking of. Our Prayers' are as intelligible as yours, and the Meaning of our Expressions as easy and obvious. To which I add, that the language of the Scriptures, to which we are no Strangers, is generally chosen as most proper and agreeable, so that

hat the s, in But ur Pr ression Spirit o the Heare I fe and t Power vou fa per Ex prono (as we grega what fubmi not le idle S may l be fo Exten of Pr you Spirit that true I Whe

Perfo

Hear

hat the Difficulty which you insist so much upon, in Reality, none.

be, had before

at Mer-

urs and

him, by

ret, for

irit, en f Grace

eed no

raction

faid all

eir own

e found

evotion

an with

e then

present

n fuch

out the nagina

ou mi-

much

ense of

n now

ble as

s easy

age of

ers, is le, fo

that

nce.

But (if your Word must be taken) we have in ur Prayers so many Incoherences, and improper Exressions as shew how little such Prayers have of a true spirit of Devotion, and such as might recommend them the Acceptance of God, or promote true Piety in the Hearers, P. 23.

I fee, Sir, that you are refolved to charge home, and to expose our Worship as much as is in your Power. But, by your Leave, on what Grounds do you fay, that there are fuch Incoherences and improper Expressions in the Dissenters Prayers? You have pronounced it to be fuch an unwarrantable thing (as we shall see presently) to go to a separate Congregation, that you can't be supposed to speak what you do from your own Knowledge. And, I Submit it to your Consideration, whether you do not lessen your Character as often as you bring an Not but that there idle Story into the Pulpit. may be Incoherence, and Expressions that may not be so proper, in a conceived (or, as you call it, an Extempore) Prayer, and so there may be in a Form of Prayer, and in a Sermon too. But to suggest (as you plainly do) that there is wanting a true Spirit of Devotion in the Dissenters Prayers, and that they have little or no Tendency to promote true Piety in the Hearers, is rash and uncharitable. Whether there be a true Spirit of Devotion or no, in Persons that pray, is known only to the Searcher of Hearts; and I am forry to fee, that you should pretend pretend to any Part of the Divine Prerogative As to true Piety, there is, without doubt, too much Reason to bewail the sad Decay of it in the Chriflian World; and it is the Grief of all good Men. that there is no more of it to be feen among w and you. But your Cenfure makes it necessary for me to fay, that if the Tendency of our Prayers and yours to promote Piety in the Hearers, may be estimated by their Lives, I am apt to believe, that upon an Enquiry into the Behaviour, of those that attend on your Ministry and ours, it would appear that your Reflection on this Head might very well have been spared. There is nothing indeed in our Prayers (nor is there in yours) that can recommend them to the Acceptance of God, which is only to be expected through the Intersession of our glorious Advocate, who is continually folliciting his Father to receive and answer the humble, though polluted Addresses, of sincere Worshippers; but we hope, that God hath frequently answered the Supplications, which have been offered up to him in our Assemblies; and from thence we draw this comfortable conclusion, that for Christ's fake, though not for our own, our Prayers have been accepted.

Your Notion, that it seems impossible without a settled Form of Prayer, to preserve not only the Gravity, but even the Orthodoxy of publick Worship, is very groundless; but if it could be proved to be true, it would conclude as much for your being tied to Homilies as well as to a Liturgy; the Orthofined fining me to eak in ood B elp his Befor e pro hich v Comi first in th good act? e lear liftori ected amphi tion ard t ook u ith t ou bi Dissen lainly which fag

cy of

r, by

ns as

econo

ogative

o much

e Chri-

d Men

ong w

Tary for

Prayers

nay be e, that

fe that

ry well

eed in an re-

is only

r glo-

ng his

hough

; but

ed the

o him

w this

fake,

been

out a

avity,

very

o be eing

dos

cy of publick Worship, being in as much Danr, by leaving Persons to compose their own Serns as their Prayers. So that if they are to be issued in one Case, there's the same Reason for spining them in the other. And if we were once me to that, one that is no Pains-taking Man (to eak in your own Way) would be qualified for a bod Benefice (or two) if he had Interest enough to elp him to Preferment in the Church.

Before I dismiss this Head of Prayer, it may e proper to look back on your marginal Note, hich we meet with, P. 11. "It is notorious that Comin and Heath, two Popish Priests, were the first setters up of Extempore Prayers in England, in the Beginning of Queen Elizabeth's Reign". goodly Story! But how does it appear to be act? Could you have produced the Authority of e learned Cambden, Eachard, or any other valuable listorian for what you fay, you might have exeded that Credit would be given to it; but the amphlet which you quote having fo little Repution in the World, such as have a greater Reard to Truth than to the Interest of a Party, will ok upon your Tale as ridiculous, and reject it ith the Contempt which it deserves. And would on but read the Answer to Dr. Scott's Cases against Disenters, concerning Forms of Prayer, (in which it is lainly proved, that the Story of Heath and Comin, which you have received, has in it all the Marks f a glaring Falshood.) I am perswaded, that if a cond Impression of your Discourse should be called

led for, you would order Foxes and Firebrands be left out of the Margin. And the rather, be cause that venerable Author has told the World that among other Instructions which the Emissaria of Rome received concerning their Management in England, this was one, "If you own your selve "Clergymen, then to preach, but with Cause" on, till ye be well acquainted with those Here ticks you converse with; and then, by Degree add to your Doctrine, by CEREMONIES or otherwise, as you find them inclineable".

One thing I had almost forgot, and that is, that feveral learned and pious Bishops of the Church of England, and many excellent Persons among the inferior Clergy, have recommended conceived Prayer, and practiced it too, and some use it to this Day. Bishor Wilkins, who was highly valued and reverenced by al that knew himt, published a Discourse concerning the Gift of Prayer, in which (speaking about Person's confining himself to a Form) " says he " P. 11. How can fuch a Man fute his Defires unto feveral Emergencies? What one fays of Coun-" cil to be had from Books, may be fitly applied to "this Prayer by Book, that 'tis commonly, of it " felf, fomething flat and dead, floating, for the most Part, too much in Generalities, and not particular enough for each feveral Occasion There is not Life and Viggur in it to engage the

Affections

a the

the the

Thef

there

Gift

Suita

and t

unto

nion,

this (

to be great

ed up

of the

You f

dered

hat t ip of

The

aken

1iz. "

ven

ings,

et us l

vhere

lande

riefts

Idvoe:

nd a

he CI

^{*} Foxes and Firebrand's, 2d Edit. printed at Dublin, 2 Part, p.29. + Tilletfon's Preface to Bishop Wilkins & Sermons.

Affections, as when it proceeds immediately from " the Soul it Self, and is the natural Expression of those Particulars whereof we are most fensible." These were that great Man's Sentiments; and therefore, to excite Christians to labour after the Gift of Prayer, he takes notice of its Excellency, its Suitableness and Necessity, its special Advantages; and the Inconveniencies that a Man will be expos'd unto for the Want of it. And gives it as his Opinion, that Ministers are more especially concern'd in this Gift, and that it is a Fault and Shame for them to be without it. Pious Bishop Hall, who was so great an Ornament to the Church of England, prayed upon Occasion, as the Dissenters do; and some of the best Ministers of your Church do the same. You should therefore, I think, have better considered Things, before you had prefumed to fay, hat the Emissaries of Rome were the first Setters up of free Prayer in England.

That which next follows in the Marginal Note, aken Notice of before, I suppose is your own, iz. "Since that Time, there can be Instances given of Popish Priests preaching in Seperate Meetings, &c." It may be so: But till you think fit to et us know their Names, and to tell us when and where they preach'd, what you say must go for lander. Mention, Sir, if you can, any Popish Priests that have preach'd, since the Act of Uniformity, among those Dissenters for whom I am an Advocate. And I believe I shall be at no Loss to as many, and more, that have officiated in the Church of England within that Time. What

art, p. 29

rands

er, be World

ni Carie

menti

r felve

Cauti

e Here

Degree

NIES

e"*.

is, that

urcho

ong the

yer, and

Bishop

ed by all

cerning

bout

Cays he

ires un-

of Coun-

plied to y, of it

for the

ind not

ccasion

age the

ections

f. t

J

ng

Tal

And

of t

till,

ent

ve a

ppe

he I

of t

which

Evil.

Dou

ou

vill

ron

re :

our

ou, her

Sc

. 25

mi

eg]

I,

Chin

eing

he 1

vid

your End was, in Printing the Passage which I before remark'd, I will not pretend to say: But you must allow me to tell you, that the Dissenters are fully convinced, that the *Spirit of Popery breaths nothing but Confusion, to the civil and religious Rights of a Protestant Church and Kingdom; and therefore have always opposed it with Sincerity and Zeal. And when a dangerous Conspiracy (as we are told from the Throne) has been for some Time formed against his Majesty's Person and Government, in savour of a Popish Pretender, and some abandon'd Men, in despite of all Obligations divine and human, have engaged in this wicked Design, not one Protestant Dissenter has been charg'd with having any hand in the Villany.

I am now come to the Conclusion of your Discourse And here you exhort your People to continue sted-fast in the Communion of a Church so truly Primitive and Apostolical, (p. 24.) And that this Exhortation may make the deeper Impression, say you, "Some think there is no Harm in going to a separate Congregation to hear a good Thing, as they express it; But why should Men do an ill Thing only in order to hear a good one?" Right, Sir, prove it to be an ill Thing to worship God in a separate Congregation, and your Way of Reasoning all will allow to be very conclusive. But how will you do this? Let us hear your Argument. "I

[&]quot;think I may justly call it an ill Thing, for those who are profess'd Members of our Church, to [&]quot; go to separate Meetings; for this is to encourage

^{*} His Majesty's Speech to the Parliament, Octob. 11th, 1722 ich I be-

But you

nters are

y breaths

religious

ingdom;

th Since-

biracy (as

for Some

1 Govern-

me aban-

e and hu-

not one

having

iscourse

nue sted-

y Primi

Exhor-

fay you,

o a sepa-

as they

ll Thing

ght, Sir,

in a fe-

easoning

now will

or those

irch, to

courage

nt.

that Schism and Division, which in their own Judgment they ought to condemn."

Well, now we fee what it is that you are aimng at. The Diffenters (according to your Way of Talking) are chargeable with the Guilt of Schism: And going to a separate Meeting, is encouraging of that Schism; and therefore an ill Thing. Right, till, provided it can be made out, that the Difenters are guilty of Schism. But, till this is done, ve are but where we were; and as yet it does not ppear, that there is any more Harm in Hearing he Dissenting Minister in Petersfield, than the Rector of the Parish. That Schism (the Sin, I mean, which is called by that Name) is a very great Evil, we believe as well as you; and there's no Doubt but Mr. Baxter's Aggravations of it, which ou mention, (p. 25.) are very just. But if you vill make that to be Schism which is not so, and ronounce those to be Schismaticks against whom you re not able to make good fo invidious a Charge our calling Names will be of very little Service to ou, But, if you please, let us enter a little farher into this Argument.

Schism then, (according to your Account of it, 25.) "Is a causeless Separation from the Communion of the Church:" On which I would be Leave, to make the following Remarks, viz.

I, You need not, I am sure, be told, that one Thing necessary, to make a Definition good, is, its being universal, that is to say, it ought to contain he whole Thing defined. Now, nothing is more vident, than that your Definition of Schism wants

E

rhis

this Property. The Corinthian Christians, you know, met to worship God in one and the same Place; and there was no Party that proceeded so far as to set up a separate Communion from the rest, and yet because they fell into uncharitable Heats and Contentions, and did not love one another as they should have done; the Apostle tells them, that he heard that there were Divisions (oxiouala) among them, I Cor. xi. 18. So that here was Schism without a Separation from the Communion of the Church.

2. Your saying that Schism is a causeless Separation from the Communion of the Church, if you mean by the Church, the Church of England, looks as if you appropriated the Name of the Church to your selves, to the Exclusion of all that don't belong to your Communion: And if this be your Intention, you are to the last Degree uncharitable, and the Guilt of Schism will lie at your own Door.

3. Supposing your Definition of Schism to be very just, those Protestant Dissenters, whose Defence I am undertaking, conceive themselves clear of the Guilt which you are so forward to charge them with, for as much as their Separation from the Church of England, is so far from being Causeless, that, after a serious Consideration of all Circumstances, they think they have Reasons that are abundantly sufficient to justify their leaving your Communion. You will say, without doubt, that they have not. But, who must judge? If the established Church must always determine in this Case, which Way can the Reformation be defended? For, to be sure, in the Opinion of the Church of ome, ausele elves. re full o leav aufele o your Tha the e ful] owing isfied Who fr awful' Right here w ipline vhich t he Wo ion wl ciences hem un Thus, hat the Privil o part s estab

gainst

candalo

age an

hey re

Christ's

procuri

ome, our Separation from their Communion was auseless. But if the People must judge for themelves, (which is the Protestant Principle) when they re fully convinced they have a fufficient Warrant o leave your Church, their Separation cannot be auseless, and therefore not schismatical, according byour own Definition of Schifm. You fay, I know, That nothing else can justify a Separation from the established Church, but its requiring unlawful Terms of Communion:" (p. 27.) But (alowing you to be right as to that, though I am faisfied you are not) the Question will still return, Who shall judge whether your Church requireth unawful Terms of Communion or no? If this be the Right of the People, then it will follow, that if here were feveral Things in the Constitution, Difipline and Worship of the Church of England, which they are fully perfuaded are not agreeable to he Word of God; and fome Terms of Commuion which they cannot, without making their Conciences uneafy, comply with, fuch Terms are to hem unlawful, though others don't think them fo. Thus, for Instance, if there are those who think hat the Liberty of chusing their own Ministers, is Privilege which they ought on no Confiderations o part with; and that, as the Church of England s established, this is taken from them: If it goes against them to receive the holy Sacrament with candalous Livers, when they can have the Advanage and Comfort of a more pure Communion: If they reckon the Cross in Baptism an Addition to Christ's Institution, and can't be reconcil'd to the procuring covenanting Sponfors for their Children, when

they

know, e; and

as to t, and ets and s they hat he annong with-

hurch. Sepa-

if you looks hurch don't e your itable. Door.

e very ence 1 of the

them m the

useles, rcum-

at are your that

e esta-Cafe,

ided? ch of

Rome,

hey are convinced that it is their Duty to covenam for them in Person: If they think it an unwarrantable Confinement to be obliged at all Times to use a Form of Words in Prayer, Oc. While these are their fettled Apprehensions, the Terms of Conformity are to them unlawful, and therefore their Separation is to be justified. A very learned Person, and the best Advocate that ever the Church of England had (the present Bishop of Hereford) has told the World his Sentiments about this, in the following remarkable Words, viz. * " If there be "Persons who will be perswaded by no Arguments, that a Compliance with those Terms is in " it self Lawful, I confess it is my Opinion, that " while they are thus perswaded, it is as much " their Duty to Separate from us, as it is our Duty to Separate from the Church of Rome. For they, as well as we, are obliged not to do what the "judge to be Unlawful, and they, as much as we, ought to assemble themselves for the Worship of "God, and the Enjoyment of his Ordinances". Thus, I hope, it appears, that the Dissenters are not guilty of the Schism which you charge them with, and that Persons may worship God in their Assemblies without doing an ill Thing. The Apofile, I know, befeeches Christians to mark them which cause Divisions and Offences, and to avoid them, Rom. xvi. 17. But the Diffenters think (and some of the most eminent Conformists have own'd as much t)

* The Reasonableness of Conformity, 3d Edit. p. 182.

† The most vehement Accusers are the greatest Offenders:—
The greatest Schismaticks are such as make the Way to Heaven narrower, the Yoak of Christ heavier;—the Conditions of Ecclesiastical Communion harder and stricter, than they were made at the Beginning by Christ and his Aposles. They who talk of That

That the smake he Per though hey this he Pri nd join litions nade.

You

le's headify their God, what the Honour re aim ble to But, that fuch near not livil be tablene Unity bu

Christia

Chap. 3. fusions and ing other done, S venam

rrant.

use a

fe are

onfor-

eir Se-

Person,

rch of

d) has

in the

ere be

Argu-

s is in

, that

much

Duty

they,

t they

s we,

hip of

ices"

cs are

them

their

Apo-

them

them,

me of

ich t)

Heaven Ecclelinade at

talk of

That

That the Imposers of human Inventions, and such a make them necessary Terms of Communion, are he Persons that cause Divisions and Offences. And though you have a quite different Notion of it) hey think it be their Dury to affert their Christian liberty, by leaving those who will not allow them he Privileges of Christians upon Christ's Terms, and joining with others, who make no other Conditions of Communion than the Scriptures have made.

You may talk as long as you please of the Peole's heaping up Teachers to themselves, only to graify their itching Ears, but if they can appeal to God, who knows their Hearts better than you do, hat they have higher Views, and that it is his lonour and their own eternal Good which they re aiming at, none of your Reflections will be ble to move them.

But, fay you, p. 26. "Are fuch Persons sure that they shall hear nothing but what is good in such Assemblies". I reply by asking you the same Question, Are Persons sure that they shall hear nothing but what is good in your Churches? Is t not likely (to talk as you do) that several things will be said there to enslame the Passions of Men, and to create Differences and Animosities among Christians? Is there not a great deal of Uncharitableness in many of your Sermons? Are not ho-

Unity but aim at Tyranny, and will have Peace with none but their Slaves and Vassals. Chillingworth's Relig. of Protest. Gre. Chap. 3. Sect. 81. The main Inlet. of all the Distractions, Confusions and Divisions of the Christian World, hath been By adding other Conditions of Church Communion, than Christ hath done, Stillingseet's Iren. Pret.

nest

mest and consciencious Dissenters, who behave a well, live as peaceably, and are as much as a much as a offending God as any of you, too often slander and misrepresented to the World? These thing could be proved by a Cloud of Witnesses, if ther was need of it. The Prebendary who Preached is your Church at Peterssield no longer ago than the 17th of June last, delivered several Passages in his Discourse, which I am consident he will not easily be able to defend, and I submit it to his own Conscience, whether his Design was not to blacken the Dissenters, and to reproach them and their Worsship? If it was, I am sure the Persons that were at Church that Day heard something more that was good there.

Well, but what are those sad things which it is likely People will hear if they go to our Assemblies? As to this, you say, "Is it not likely several things "will be said there to keep up Schism and Division," and to condemn Order and Decency in the Wor-"ship of God. --- May we not likewise suppose, that some things may be said in those Places to the Disparagement of bodily worship in the Service of God, &c."

I find, Sir, that you have a very good Talent at Supposing, and while your Hand was in, why had you not proceeded, and added to your other Suppositions, may we not suppose, that the Alcoran is read in Dissenting Congregations, or that they worthip graven Images? But to be serious; Is it becoming a Divine or a Christian, to make Suppositions without any Reason, to the Prejudice of others?

127

or. E hum tho

esp dul gen

pour ons

recon there make

lier

time,
Love
of yo

God' of the which rant

thou ough

John yet v

of o

tion

4

Dr.

ehave

afraid

flander

le thing

if ther

ached i

than the

es in his

ot easily

wn Con-

cken the

ir Wor

nat were

ore than ich it i

emblies

I things

Division,

e Wor-

uppose,

aces to

Service

Talent

hy had

er Sup-

coran is

y wor-

beco-

fitions thers?

Dr.

Dr. Barrow takes Notice, " that one kind of Cas lumny is by inftilling fly Suggestions, which, although they do not downrightly affert Falfhoods. yet they breed finisher Opinions in the Hearers; especially in those who from Weakness or Credulity, from Jealoufy or Prejudice, from Negligence or Inadvertency, are prone to entertain them. ---- This is done many Ways; by propounding wily Suppositions, shrewd Infinuations; -- intimating a Possibility, or inferring fome Likelihood of, and thence inducing to believe the Fact t. This is a Passage which I would recommend to your cool Thoughts, and, I hope, there is something in your own Bosom that will make a proper Application of it. In the mean ime, let me tell you, that the Diffenters preach up Love and Unity among Christians, as much as any of you, and are as much for Order and Decency in God's Service, though they cannot approve of some of the Ceremonies and Usages of your Churchy which they think are incoduced without any Warrant from God's Word. To which I add, that though we believe God to be a Spirit, and that he ought (according to our bleffed Saviour's Words, Johniv. 24.) to be worshipped, in Spirit and in Truth; yet we are, at the fame time fully convinced, that he requireth not only the Service of our Souls, but of our Bodies too, and that we should (as often as we are capable of doing it) express our inward Devotion and Reverence of the Divine Majesty, by such

A Barrow's Works; Vol. 1. p. 240.

Postures as are most decent and becoming when we are in his Presence. This we plead for, and according to this we Practice in our Assemblies; and I can't but wonder that you should infinuate the contrary. You may excuse this, Sir, how you will, but it will go with me for an undeniable Evidence, that such as attend the Service of your Church may sometimes hear things delivered from the Pulpit which cannot be made appear to be true, and therefore can't be call'd good.

As to kneeling in Prayer, so far are we from contradicting (as you are pleased to suggest) those Passages of Scripture, in which we find it mentioned, that we highly approve it; and if this Gefture be not used in our Congregations, 'tis not from any Dislike of it, but because our Places of Wor-Thip will not allow of that, as well as of standing which you can't but own to be a proper Po-Hure for Prayer, as well as the other; because we have many Examples * in the Scripture to recommend it, and the Clergy of your Church generally, if not always, stand, when they pray in the Pulpit, till they come to conclude with the Lord's Prayer. I know it is recorded of many eminent Persons, that they kneeled in the Duty which I am speaking of; and that it is related of our Bledfed Saviour, particularly when he pray'd to his Father (excuse my not using your Phrase, when he faid his Prayers; because I am perswaded he had no Firm before him) that he kneeled down; but till

fcience

your]

to hav

you

and

Char

ciled that

throu

havio

vice;

where he m on th the I Pract not a ftoms ly pro as mu Rever Cong Hope ters, with ! Pulpit mined I a fo mu testant You c Right

we are

ccord-

and I

e con-

ill, but

e, that

h may

Pulpit

there-

n con-

those

ntion-

Gesture

from

Wor-

unding

r Poife we

ecom-

erally,

Pul-Lord's

ninent

I am Blef-

is Fa-

en he had at till

you

you can prove standing to be an irreverent Posture. and shew, that it can't be called bodily Worship, your Charge against us on that Head cannot be reconciled with Honour or Justice. I shall only add, that if a Man was to go into the Parish Churches throughout the Kingdom, and to observe the Behaviour of your People in the Time of Divine Service; I am perswaded, that in most Churches where he found one really on his Knees in Prayers, he might fee many fitting at their Devotion. on the Whole, as I am fufficiently acquainted with the Dissenters Way of Worship, and know the Practice of many of their Assemblies; so I am not altogether a Stranger to the Orders and Cuftoms of the Church of England, and I folemnly profess it to be my real Opinion, that there is as much Order and Decency, and as proper Marks of Reverence both of Body and Soul, to be feen in our Congregations as in yours; and I am not without Hopes, that when you have calmly confidered Matters, you will wish that you had not been so forward with your Cenfures, and delivered things from the Pulpit and Press before you had sufficiently examined them.

I am forry, Sir, that you should appear to be so much out of Temper about the Meeting of Protestant Dissenters that is lately set up in your Town. You can't but allow, that all Mankind have a Right to serve God in such a Way as their Consciences pronounce to be the best; and if some of your Parish have claimed that Right, by agreeing to have Social and Publick Worship performed, as they think the Word of God directs, why thou you be angry with them? Belides, you can't fay, hope, but that they continue as good Neighbours live as quietly, and as much like Christians. when they attended on the Worship of God your Church; the Minister they have chose (would you let him have the Honour of your Acquaintance) you would find to be a Gentleman, Scholar, and a Divine, and one that would thin himself very happy could be be infirmmental i turning any to Righteoufness, but foorn to busy him felf in making Projetytes to a Party; and what Oc casion can there be for your being disturb'd? Though the Number of Ministers, which are employed in the Establishment, and out of it, be very considerable all are too few to reform a wicked World, and to revive the Power of Religion, which has, for fome Year past, fuffered fuch deplorable Decays; and, me thinks, all good Men, (how different foever their Sen timents may be about disputable Points) should hear tily join in carrying on fo excellent a Work as that is

they

As to the Remarks which I have made on you Discourse, the Worldmust judge whether they are just or not; but I have one Request to you before I take Leave, and that is, that if any thing unhandsome has been offered in any Part of this Letter, you would be so kind as to excuse it, as not being said with an affronting Design, and that you would be lieve me, when I assure you, that I am,

Reverend Sir, of of commen

Your Sincere Friend, and Most humble Servants

Portsmouth, Dec. 16, 1722.

JOHN NORMAN